

5 Overlooked Vulnerabilities Looters Look For (And How to Fix Them in 1 Hour)

A free printable checklist covering the blind spots that experienced looters scan for first, plus quick fixes you can do this weekend.

Why Standard Alarm Systems Fail When You Need Them Most

Most home security depends on the power grid and an internet connection. Cut either one and the whole system goes dark — right when crime rates typically spike during blackouts and civil unrest.

Layered Defense: Deter, Detect, Delay

This kit stacks a perimeter tripwire, motion sensors, window and door alarms, a wedge-style door jammer, and a solar floodlight into one system. Each layer buys you time and warning even if every other layer fails.

Built By Someone Who Actually Assessed Real Threats

Former CIA officer Jason Hanson designed this system around how intruders actually scout and enter a property, not around what looks impressive in a showroom.
